Normally, JYP will take three to six weeks to complete the review (both internal and external review) process and the accepted manuscript will be assigned for publication in next available issue. The mean acceptance rate of author submissions to JYP (vol. 1 to 9) is 41% and frequency of acceptance rate per year is presented in Figure 2.

I would like to acknowledge the contributions of the editorial board members and the reviewers for their significance contributions to make decisions on author submissions prior to the publication. I also would like to acknowledge the contributions of founding editor, previous editor and editorial board members of JYP, web admin., Medknow Publications and EManuscript Services for their never-ending support.
